How to Cite a Web Site in a Reference List
(adapted from www.bibme.org/citation-guide/Chicago/website)

A. The most basic entry for a web site comprises the author name, page title, web site title, web address, and date accessed:
Last Name, First Initial. "Page Title." Web site Title. Web Address (retrieved Date Accessed).

Smith, J. "Obama inaugurated as President." CNN.com.

The first author's name should be reversed, with a comma being placed after the last name and a period after the initial letter of the first and additional middle name(s). Omit any titles and affiliations associated with the author. A suffix, such as a roman numeral or Jr./Sr. should appear after the author's given name initial, preceded by a comma.

B. For a page with two or more authors, list them in order as they appear on the web site. Only the first author's name should be reversed, while the others are written in normal order. Separate author names by a comma:

C. If no author is available, begin the citation with the web site owner:
Cable News Network. "Obama inaugurated as President." CNN.com.

The full-page title, followed by a period, should be placed within quotation marks. Then include the web site title, followed by a period.

D. If the web site title is not available, include the web site owner in its place:
Smith, J. "Obama inaugurated as President." Cable News Network.

Include the web address of the page. Next, place the text "accessed" and the date on which you accessed the web site (written in the format of "month day, year") in parentheses. Conclude the citation with a period after the parentheses.

E. For informal web sites (such as a home page) or web sites without formal titles, substitute descriptive phrases in your citation in place of a web site title.
